

WASHINGTON STATE LIQUOR CONTROL BOARD

BULLETIN NO. 5

April 9, 1934.

In order to maintain the necessary supervision and control of liquors coming into the State of Washington for future reshipment to points beyond the State, the Board has designated the Eyres Transfer & Warehouse Company of Seattle, and the Goodwin Transfer Company of Spokane as the sole and exclusive companies to store and transport such liquors.

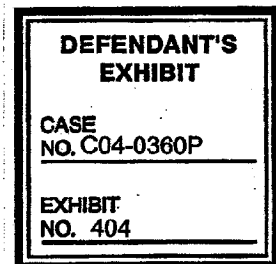

All such liquors, for future reshipment beyond the State, must be consigned to the Washington State Liquor Control Board for the account of the shipper or owner, and in care of either of the above designated companies.

Subject to the prior rights of the Board the storage and transfer companies, so designated, shall have exclusive possession of such liquors from the time same are received from a common carrier, in transit, and until again delivered to a common carrier.

The storage companies so designated will, from time to time, furnish the Board information as to the amount of liquor in storage or on hand within the State.

The above provisions are made for the purpose of facilitating the storage and handling of liquors imported into this State for future reshipment beyond the State.

Stocks of liquor on hand at the end of the sixty-day period, March 24th, provided for in the Liquor Act, and heretofore inventoried by order of this Board, and being held subject to its disposition, must immediately be delivered to the above designated warehouse companies, or permission of the Board immediately obtained to export same beyond the State.
